Secretary's office.

Talked with G. Lewis Jones, Consul General in Tunisia.

William Herrington, the Department's fisheries man, came in to talk about the tuna tariff bill.

Lunched in my office with Carl Burckhardt, [redacted] just arrived from Paris.

/Butch\ Fisher came in to discuss the Moroccan ICJ case about which Ambassador Bonnet saw me last Tuesday.

The New Zealand Ambassador came in (being unable to see John Allison, with whom he had an appointment, as Allison was tied up in a meeting with the Secretary and Prime Minister Menzies) to request our Government's cooperation in reaching a suitable agreement with the Japanese to cover the facilities needed in Japan to support UN operations in Korea.

Went to a meeting in the Secretary's office on Berlin.

Long meeting with Messrs. Matthews, Jessup, Perkins, Knight, Bohlen, Riddleburger, and Gilman regarding the Secretary's schedule.

Dinner at home with the Bohlens, Donbrights, and others.
